1628/1629	Feb 19	Re(garding) Rowlett Rector. Falkner a (questman) appeared & stated that William Tompson of Uppingham told the said Mr Falkner that he bought part of the glebe land belonging to the parsonage of Uppingham of John Waddington and that the said Mr Rowlett gave part of the glebe land to Waddington's wife being Mr Rowlett's kinswoman in marriage. The same Falkner stated that in the collect next before the Ten Commandments in the end of the said Collect he (Rowlett) adds these words "according to the holy commandments" and then goes on with the rest. And in the Creed called Athanasius Creed after the words "neither made nor created but begotten" but proceeding he adds these words "from them both". As regards the bell ringing Falkner states that for many years past the parsons of Uppingham for the time being have by common fame procured the bell to be rung at 8 of the clock at the night and at 4 of the clock in the morning at these several charity from the Monday after Harborough fair till Shrove Tuesday.
1628/1629	Feb 5	Thomas Rowlett Rector of Uppingham for suffering the glebe land belonging to the parsonage to be surrendered by copy of Court Roll as copy held of inheritance as it is commonly reported Thomas Rowlett for not reading divine service according to the book of common prayer Thomas Rowlett for not procuring the bell to be rung at 8 of the clock at night and at 4 of the clock in the morning according to the custom of the parish Andrew Rowlett and his now wife: ante-nuptial fornication.
1628/29	Mar 11	The following statements appear regarding the above matters - 2. The Collect before the Ten Commandments, in the latter end of the Collect he adds the words "according to the holy Commandments" which is not in the book Likewise his addition in the Creed called Athanasius Creed where it is "neither made nor created nor begotten but proceeding", he adds these words "from them both". As for the presentment of the alienation of the Glebe Land of Rectory or Parsonage of Uppingham, one William Thompson did tell me he bought it of John Waddington which Thompson told me the parson gave it his kinswoman in marriage to Waddington, for the quantity I reserve myself to the Copy of the Court Rolls which the said Thompson affirmed the said lands cost him £8 and so hopes peaceably to enjoy it 3. Touching a state of inheritance made of the Glebe Land, the said Thomas Rowlett answers that he has not made any estate of inheritance of any of the Glebe Land privily belonging to the parsonage, but has granted a messuage built by a poor man one John Rowlett upon a piece of waste ground belonging to the parson's manor, granted to the said John Rowlett's daughter upon rent & service due to the Lord of the Parsonage Manor for ever, at the will of the Lord according to the custom of the manor and this he believes he has lawfully done without any prejudice but to the advantage of parsonage for ever Touching the ringing of the eight of clock and four of clock bell he answers that he is not bound by law to do it, it being a mere secular service and has no relation to his ministerial function but contrary to it Thomas Rowlett. 4. The charges are restated without any additional information

Mr Callom Thistledyn (Cheselden) does not come to the church: He has not done heretofore.

Richard Manby of Uppingham affirms that he was one of the Grand Jury at the Assizes aforesaid when the said Mr Rowlett was presented as aforesaid. Edward Palmer also a parishioner of Uppingham and who is also said to be one of the Grand Jury but says he cannot affirm whether he was one or not. Manby & Palmer do say that they cannot further charge the said Rowlett for any preaching or affirming in the premises than he the said Rowlett himself does acknowledge. But as they now remember Mr Cheseldine of Braunston and Everard Bretton of Uppingham were there also of the Grand Jury and the said Cheseldine was the foreman. And these or one of them can best inform his Lordship (about) this matter. So Cheseldine of Braunston is cited.

William Andrews & his wife of Wardley; similarly.

John Wright; he dwells at Lyddington.
