1250 The surname 'de sarco Licio' found in century xiii as describing the patron of this church, belonged to the Earls of Northampton; it is generally rendered Searling and is derived from a place about 30 miles NE. of Paris, where Louis le Gros took Curtas Silvanectensium which accounts for another variation of the same surname de silvanectis. Their shield was Ar. 2 bars gu. petty or with 3 fleurs de lis gu in chief: some allusion being intended to Senlis. The surname de bella pago seems to have survived in Behoe. The Searling family became closely connected with the Fitzwalter family (of Gillingham, Essex) who had representatives in North Luffeham.
