RLHRS LIBRARY: Arrangements for Access

The books and papers owned by RLHRS, which were in store during the Rutland County Museum refurbishment, are now available for use.

The latest catalogue of our books and documents may be found on the RLHRS website at <http://www.rutlandhistory.org/library.htm> and paper copies are available in our office and at the Museum desk.

Our books have been divided into two collections:-

- 1) Books of general interest to local historians are kept in our office together with maps, documents and papers. (N.B. we have a filing cabinet with papers on each parish). To consult these, please contact David Carlin on 01572 722698 or, failing that, Auriol Thomson on 01572 823339, to arrange a suitable meeting time.
We regret we cannot allow open access to our office.
- 2) Books relating to Rutland and surrounding counties, as well as guides to local or family history study, are, by kind permission of The Museum Service Manager, housed in The Riding School with the Museum's own books on shelves provided by RLHRS, under the supervision of the member of staff on duty.

Catalogues of all these books, belonging to both RLHRS and RCM, are held at this desk.

The current copies of the magazines to which we subscribe are also on display here. Back copies are kept in our office.

Books and magazines in The Riding School may be consulted at any time during museum hours by members and non-members alike. However, should you wish to study a book you will be asked to sign for it and take it to the Study Area where tables and seating are available. No books may be removed from the Museum but photocopying for private study, as allowed by The Copyright Act, is possible.

The Museum makes a charge.

We do not normally allow books or papers out of our care. However, exceptions may be made for particular projects or in special circumstances. For this, please send your request for consideration by The Committee to:
